School of Advanced Military Studies graduates class of 2024

by Sarah Hauck/Army University Public Affairs Officer

The U.S. Army School of Advanced Military Studies recognized 147 students in a graduation and academic awards ceremony May 23 at the Lewis and Clark Center.

The 2024 SAMS class represented each branch of the U.S. military to include Space Force, international militaries from nine countries and a federal agency.

The ceremony recognized graduates of SAMS' three education tracks: the Advanced Military Studies, Advanced Strategic Leadership Studies, and Advanced Strategic Planning and Policy programs.

Guest speaker and SAMS Class of 2009 graduate Brig. Gen. Marne L. Suttin, deputy chief of staff, G6, U.S. Army Forces Command, emphasized that SAMS students are innovation multipliers.

Suttin, who served as the Fort Leavenworth Garrison commander from 2017-2019, explained that as the Army continues to place innovation and transformation at the forefront of finding success in conflict, SAMS graduates have the power to drive change.

"As you sit here today, poised on the cusp of new challenges, remember the profound impact you can have as SAMS planners," she said. "Embrace the lessons learned, lead with integrity, and remain open to diverse perspectives. SAMS plays a pivotal role in shaping the future of our Army, cultivating leaders who innovate, adapt and excel in the face of adversity."

SAMS Director Col. Andrew Morgado said the success of the SAMS program that continues to produce SAMS-educated planners stands on two pillars: quality students and quality faculty.

"Our students are well grounded, exquisitely prepared, and true stewards of the profession," Morgado said. "They will leave SAMS and be highly sought-after leaders in every follow-on assignment."

Beyond granting degrees, the ceremony recognized several students for their superior academic and fitness performances, leadership achievements, and writing excellence, demonstrating Morgado's assertion.

Tornado-themed full-scale exercise hits post June 12

by Patrick Burch/Fort Leavenworth Directorate of Plans, Training, Mobilization and Security Plans Branch Chief

Fort Leavenworth will conduct a full-scale exercise June 12 involving a tornado scenario.

Full-scale exercises are designed to assess the readiness and capability of protection functional elements within the Garrison.

Exercises also involve installation mission partners and off-installation jurisdictions to increase inter-operability and strengthen partnerships.

Exercise scenarios are designed to test processes and identify capability gaps in managing and resolving crises under realistic conditions. The results assist the Garrison in developing future training, improve processes and update standard operating procedures and plans.

On the day of the exercise, it is likely community members will see first responders, utility workers and maintenance personnel conducting exercise activities in a few areas across the installation. Exercise areas will be marked with signs and/or orange traffic cones and will have safety and observer/controller personnel on site to ensure exercise sites run effectively and safely.

Fort Leavenworth Community members are asked to drive slowly when nearing exercise areas and to not enter exercise areas by either vehicle or on foot.

Commanding General challenges community to meet AER goal

Team,
Thank you for your efforts on educating and informing our soldiers on the importance of Army Emergency Relief. The campaign continues through June 14, the Army's 249th birthday.

The campaign goal for 2024 is a 10 percent active-duty participation rate, along with ensuring that 100 percent of soldiers are informed of the services available through the program.

As of May 28, according to AER Headquarters, the Army is at a 6.7 percent participation rate.

Fort Leavenworth is currently at 2.7 percent with 67 active-duty donors.

We need just 200 more active-duty donations for Fort Leavenworth to meet the 10 percent goal.

Ideally, we can do better; our soldiers leverage AER more than we contribute (continue to read). The goal of the program is soldiers helping soldiers.

FRONTIER 6 SENDS

Fort Leavenworth's 2024 goal is $50,000. Our community has currently raised $43,474, which includes donations from retirees, Army civilians, active-duty soldiers, and Army and Air Force Exchange Service point-of-purchase donations.

AER plays a vital role for our community. In 2023 the Fort Leavenworth community received more than $270,000 in assistance, including $120,441 in loans, $93,053 in grants, and $58,400 in scholarships.

I challenge each of you to help us reach our goal and to continue to educate our formations on the benefits that AER provides to our community.

Support soldiers in June by giving $2.49 at AAFES registers for U.S. Army's 249th birthday

by AAFES Press Release

DALLAS — Army and Air Force Exchange Service shoppers can celebrate the U.S. Army's 249th birthday all month by donating $2.49 to Army Emergency Relief at registers.

The Army's birthday is June 14, which also serves as the final day of the 2024 AER annual campaign, a yearly fundraising drive that gives soldiers an opportunity to learn about programs available to them and donate.

As the Army's official nonprofit, all donations go directly toward financial assistance for soldiers, retired soldiers and their families.

"I want AER to be the nonprofit of choice for both soldiers and retired soldiers needing financial assistance and looking to give," said retired Sgt. Maj. of the Army Tony Grinston, AER CEO. "Donating $2.49 in June is a tangible way to support our soldiers and thank them for 249 years of service to this great nation."

AER, the Air Force Assistance Fund and the Exchange first partnered in 2017 to offer shoppers an avenue to donate upon checkout and at ShopMyExchange.com. Select Exchanges in the Pacific include the Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society.

Exchange shoppers donated $2.5 million to the three military relief funds in 2023, bringing the total given to $9 million.

"This special donation option is a terrific way to support soldiers, their families and retirees while honoring the Army's birthday," said Tom Shull, Exchange director/CEO and Army veteran. "The Exchange's longtime collaboration with AER is a true force multiplier for Army quality of life."

To learn more about the Exchange's support for AER, go to <https://publicaffairs-sme.com/Community/give>.

CAC-T welcomes new deputy commanding general

by Tisha Swart-Entwistle/Combined Arms Center-Training Public Affairs Officer

Brig. Gen. Jeremy Wilson assumed responsibility for Combined Arms Center-Training from Brig. Gen. Scott Woodward during a ceremony May 31 at the Frontier Conference Center.

"Witnessing the change of responsibility between two great leaders is always inspiring, but it is also bittersweet," Combined Arms Center and Fort Leavenworth Commanding General Lt. Gen. Milford H. Beagle Jr. said during his remarks as the host for the ceremony.

Woodward will be traveling to Korea where he will be assuming responsibilities as the deputy commanding general - maneuver for the 2nd Infantry Division.

Beagle told Woodward that he will truly make a difference in his new assignment. During Woodward's time at CAC-T, Beagle said he always approached every task thoughtfully and with a lot of passion.

"Scott, I want to thank you for your leadership," Beagle said. "You helped make things easy for me, you helped make things easy for (Training and Doctrine Command), and you helped make things easy for our Army."

Beagle said Woodward and his wife, Judy Woodward, will both be missed and that they both gave of themselves freely and easily to the larger team and the community.

Woodward said that the Combined Arms Center and Fort Leavenworth is a great community to be a part of.

"It really is great when you're a part of a team where everybody is going in the same direction," Woodward said.

Woodward thanked Beagle for his leadership and support of CAC-T.

"Lieutenant General Beagle gave us the freedom to operate and do what we needed to do in CAC-T," Woodward said.

Woodward also thanked the CAC-T team and said they are world-class professionals who take their jobs seriously and make the Army better every day.

"From individual soldier training to collective training for our divisions and our corps — that is truly a huge responsibility," Woodward said.

He said that when he first found out he was coming to CAC-T and discovered everything that CAC-T encompasses, he wondered how he was going to accomplish the job. Then, he found out that the job was very fulfilling.

"Because what you're doing every day is for the Army and for our soldiers," Woodward said.

He said that the next war or conflict is not going to be won by tanks, aircraft, missiles, drones, machines, robots or artificial intelligence — it's going to be won by people.

"We have to make sure that our people have the best training that we can afford to give them within the resources that we have, so that when they go out there, they are well trained and well led."

Woodward welcomed Wilson to CAC-T, saying that if he had been asked to pick one person in the Army to replace him as the CAC-T deputy commanding general, he would have said, without hesitation, that Wilson is the best person for the job.

"He loves the Army, he loves soldiers, he knows training better than anybody I know, and he will do awesome in this job," Woodward said. "I can't wait to see what you do here in CAC-T over the next couple of years."

Beagle said that Wilson's reputation arrived at Fort Leavenworth before he did.

"Jeremy, I received many calls, letters and notes about you, and about Marti, and about your reputation," Beagle said. "I can't help but believe all of them because they came from people that I trust and people that I admire — many have told me what a great leader Jeremy is."

Beagle said Wilson is a driver of change and a true professional.

"Your proven background as a warfighter, as a trainer, and leader make you perfectly suited to take the helm over CAC-T," Beagle said. "We look forward to watching you take this team to the next level."

During his remarks, Wilson thanked Beagle for the opportunity to serve in CAC as the new CAC-T deputy commanding general.

"I'm incredibly grateful and honored to be part of this team," Wilson said. "To the CAC-T team, I'm humbled to serve in your ranks; I look forward to working with each of you as we continue to drive change and strengthen the profession."

SAMS graduation (continued from Page A1)

“It was a little daunting coming to CGSC last year and then SAMS this year, but I knew I had to achieve a level of performance that would allow me to get my voice out there and my service’s voice out there so that all of my contemporaries at the school would understand what Space (Force) brings to the field and that space is the future,” Rendon said.

“My insight to how the Army works has given me a lens to view the world in such a different way. I know that I’m only going to make my service a stronger service as we figure out our own culture and our own organizational leadership challenges because I’ve been here with the Army.”

The Iron Leader Award, for the highest Army Combat Fitness Test score, went to Lt. Col. Dayna Sanders, Kentucky National Guard, who said the award’s significance goes beyond physical excellence.

“As a female, earning the Iron Leader award demonstrates that women can meet or exceed the demanding physical standards traditionally associated with military service,” she said. “I hope that my aspirations as an athlete and a scholar inspire and motivate other women to pursue their goals, regardless of the challenges or preconceived notions they might face.”

Seminar 7, with Seminar Leader German Lt. Col. Germar Lacher, was named the Iron Operational Planning Team.

The Maj. Gen. Edwin F. Harding Faculty Award went to Dr. Luke Herrington, and the Maj. Gen. Edwin F. Harding Student Award went to Maj. Brian Hamel.

Holly Schippers received the Women, Peace, and Security Award.

Melinda Roberts received the Col. Arthur D. Simons Center Interagency Writing Award.

Best Monograph awards went to Maj. Brigid Rauch, AMSP, and Lt. Col. Jason Adler, ASLSP.

The Colonel Thomas Felts Leadership Award, considered the top award in SAMS, is presented to the student who best exemplifies the desired attributes of an Advanced Military Studies Program graduate. The award is named in honor of Felts, who graduated from the Advanced Military Studies Program in 1998 and the SAMS senior program in 2005. He was killed in action in Iraq in 2006.

The Col. Thomas H. Felts Award was presented to Maj. Audley Campbell.

In addition to celebrating the 111 AMSP and 16 ASLSP students in person, the ceremony highlighted 20 ASP3 students who completed their doctorates at various civilian universities across the country.

MAHC offers school physicals for students ages 8, under who are new to KS schools

by Munson Army Health Center Public Affairs Office

Munson Army Health Center is currently scheduling its first round of school physicals required for enrollment in Kansas schools.

According to Kansas law, physicals are required for students ages 8 or younger who are new to Kansas schools.

School physicals are not required for students attending Missouri schools; only current proof of immunization is required, which is available from the MHS GENESIS Patient Portal or from MAHC's patient administration section.

Patients should call MAHC's appointment line at 913-684-6250 to check appointment availability for a required school physical.

If a school physical is not available from MAHC in a timely manner, patients can obtain a school physical from a TRICARE-authorized network provider. There is no co-pay to obtain a school physical for active-duty family members assigned to MAHC who use a TRICARE-authorized network provider.

Be aware that routine physicals not required for enrollment that can be delayed, when medically appropriate, can be done until late summer/early fall.

Another round of school physicals will be announced later this summer.

Temporary Suspension of Sports Physicals

MAHC is not currently offering sports physicals for students who choose to participate in extracurricular activities.

Sports physicals, on their own, are not a TRICARE-covered benefit, and instead have historically been offered as a space-available service.

Current staffing does not support the extra service without impacting access for patients with acute and/or chronic healthcare needs.

MAHC continues to prioritize services to ensure it meets the soldier readiness mission and access to care standards and will fulfill that mission with systems already in place.

For more information on TRICARE-covered physicals visit <https://tricare.mil/CoveredServices/IsItCovered/Physicals>.

MAHC farewells pediatric provider

by Munson Army Health Center Public Affairs Office

Munson Army Health Center said farewell last week to long-time MAHC pediatric provider Deanne Kilian, who is retiring after nearly 50 years supporting service members, retirees, and their families in the Military Health System.

Kilian is a pediatric nurse practitioner who began working at MAHC in 2003.

Prior to joining federal service, Kilian served in the U.S. Army from 1974 to 1998 as an Army Nurse Corps officer.

At MAHC, Kilian provided primary pediatric health care, well-child health care, and prevention and management of common pediatric acute illnesses and chronic conditions in children from birth to young adult.

Patient advocates recognized for beneficiary support

by Munson Army Health Center Public Affairs Office

Munson Army Health Center Patient Advocates Kathy Budke and Tiffany Dipman were recently recognized for their support to beneficiaries enrolled at MAHC by Lt. Gen. Milford H. Beagle Jr., commanding general of the Combined Arms Center and Fort Leavenworth.

Patient advocates assist patients with concerns at the facility.

They coordinate communication between patients, family members, medical professionals and administrative team members to ensure that patients are receiving the best possible healthcare services.

MAHC patient advocates:

- Direct patient inquiries or concerns
- Facilitate satisfactory resolution
- Explain policies to patients
- Perform as a liaison between patients and the Munson Army Health Center commander.

MAHC retiring division chief receives '1 last medical record'

by Munson Army Health Center Public Affairs Office

Munson Army Health Center Patient Administration Division Chief Karl Koob received a token of appreciation from his teammates — one last “medical record” — before he retires from federal service this week.

His U.S. Army affiliation began in the late 1960s when he was called up for the draft.

After his initial service commitment, he continued to serve in the Army, eventually retiring from active duty.

After active duty, he attended both Kansas State University and the University of Kansas, earning a degree in health information management.

He joined the team at Munson Army Health Center in 2014.

To learn more about career opportunities at MAHC, visit USAJobs.gov and search keyword “Military Treatment Facilities under DHA” and Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, for location.

Fish salvage authorized for Smith Lake

Anyone with a Kansas fishing license can take fish from Smith Lake, no limit

by Fort Leavenworth Natural Resources Division

The drainage structure in Smith Lake is failing after 50-plus years and is causing the lake to drain.

Repairs to the structure can't be started until the water is gone. Thus, the fish also need to go.

A salvage permit has been issued by the Kansas Department of Wildlife and Parks to allow citizens to salvage the fish from Smith Lake. DPW Environmental will also be trying to salvage fish from Smith Lake to put into Merritt Lake for future use on post.

The lake is still too deep for seine or hand removal, so cast nets and fishing rods and reels are the currently acceptable methods. No catch-and-release in Smith Lake — have a fish fry or move fish to another water body, such as the river or Merritt Lake.

The day is approaching when water levels will be low enough and temperatures high enough to kill most aquatic life in the lake, and the lake is scheduled to be drained completely starting June 10, so fish need to be removed as soon as possible.

A Kansas fishing permit is required to fish and salvage from Smith Lake, unless exempt from Kansas state licensing, such as being under 15 years old.

All length and creel limits for Smith Lake have been removed until further notice.

Fish salvage is permitted for Smith Lake only, which is the lower lake east of Grant Avenue.

Fish Salvage Order

As authorized by K.S.A. 32.807, and as further specified under K.A.R. 115-7-1, a fish salvage condition will exist at Smith Lake on Fort Leavenworth as a result of emergency lake repairs.

It shall be legal to take fish from this location designated by posted sign. Legal means of take are rod and reel, dip net, throw net, minnow trap or seine, snagging, and hand. All length and creel limits have been removed until further notice.

This order will take effect when posted and remain in effect until posted notice is removed.

A failing drainage structure is causing Smith Lake to drain, and to repair the structure, the water must be removed. A fish salvage permit has been approved for Smith Lake so that citizens with a Kansas fishing permit can remove the fish by any legal means.

International military student sponsors still needed

Personal, professional enrichment found by volunteering with Fort Leavenworth Sponsor Program

by David M. Bornn/International Military Student Division, Command and General Staff College

The Fort Leavenworth International Military Student Office Field Studies Program is currently recruiting military (O4 and above) and civilians (GS9/WG6/NAF4 and above) to become local American ambassadors to the international military students invited to the United States to attend the world-renowned Command and General Staff College.

Your personal experience, love of culture and passion for friendship are what make you a highly qualified and capable candidate to become a Fort Leavenworth sponsor. Your service as an international military student's sponsor will be vital to the Department of State and Department of Defense Security Cooperation programs here at Fort Leavenworth and will have impacts to our nation's strategic mission for generations to come. This opportunity has benefitted thousands of members of the Fort Leavenworth community, professionally building cultural empathy and understanding, as well as enhancing the families' experience through relationships created with international military students and their families. These relationships prove to be mutually beneficial for many decades after sponsoring and provide sponsors with friends around the world.

There will be 130 international military students from 104 countries from every combatant command attending the Command and General Staff Officer Course Class of 2025. The Department of Defense and U.S. Army commits to supporting these international military students, and their authorized accompanying family members, through a formal U.S. sponsor program executed by the International Military Student Division Field Studies Program. This robust sponsorship program, unique to Fort Leavenworth, consists of three sets of sponsors for each international military student and is considered the "gold standard" of sponsor programs across the Department of Defense.

The first set of sponsors in this storied program is the "Fort Leavenworth Sponsor," comprised of uniformed military officers major and above, civilians GS9 equivalent and above, government contract personnel and on-post retirees. IMSD directly recruits, trains, and manages the Fort Leavenworth Sponsors as part of the Department of Defense-directed Field Studies Program.

There are two additional sets of sponsors that round out the "sponsor team" so our Fort Leavenworth volunteers in this program will not be alone in this opportunity. The program is supported by the organizations Operation International — a committee of the Leavenworth-Lansing Area Chamber of Commerce, which provides the local civilian "Leavenworth/Lansing Sponsors" — and the Greater Kansas City Chapter of People to People International, which provides the regional "Kansas City Sponsors."

This opportunity would require volunteers to support the incoming international military students during their first month at Fort Leavenworth when they arrive in mid-June by helping integrate the international military students into the post and the local community with your sponsor team.

Sponsor volunteers would also be a partner with the students, as needed and when possible, throughout the year they are here. Volunteers would ensure that the international military students have a safe and friendly atmosphere socially, as well as be an example of the American way of life while here in the United States. During the one year with the international military student, sponsors will attend one sponsor welcome briefing in May to onboard and provide all with the most up-to-date information; one sponsor team and international military student integration icebreaker in July, which helps facilitate the meeting with all three sponsor families and the international military student (with family, if present); one special event from the following three (Fall Food Fair international potluck event in October, holiday dinner dance/military formal event in December, or the Spring Food Fair international potluck event in March); and a sponsor recognition event at the end of May. Additional events that sponsors are invited to attend are the opening day flag ceremony in August, the five "Know Your World" cultural engagements presented throughout the school year, and the International Badge Ceremony and CGSOC graduation in June.

Many sponsors and their families stay connected with their international military student beyond their time here in the United States. Sponsor families can create lifelong friendships that provide impactful experiences for generations after sponsoring.

Sponsors are also recognized for their service, and many of the sponsors earn emeritus status, with some exceeding 45 years of sponsoring. They all started as a Fort Leavenworth Sponsor while on Active, Army Reserve and National Guard duty and/or as a DA civilian or DoD contractor. You could be the next one!

Please consider being a part of the sponsorship family at Fort Leavenworth this year.

Contact David M. Bornn Jr., IMSD Field Studies Program, at 913-684-7323 or david.m.bornn.civ@army.mil if interested in sponsoring, with any questions about the Fort Leavenworth Sponsor Program, or for more information about country availability and the process to become a future U.S. Sponsor Ambassador at Fort Leavenworth.

The eight installations qualified for a camp based on purchases and displays of Procter & Gamble products in their local commissaries and exchanges during March and April.

"These football camps offer the children in our military communities an opportunity to meet other children, learn some sports fundamentals and most importantly, have fun," said Navy Command Master Chief Mario Rivers, senior enlisted advisor to the DeCA director and CEO. "The ProCamps event is another example of the ancillary benefit commissaries offer through its industry suppliers and manufacturers that help enhance the benefit for our patrons."

ProCamps events already conducted overseas were at Vogelweh, Germany, March 23-24, with Matthew Judon from the New England Patriots (the site of the camp was at the Kaiserslautern High School), with autograph signings at the Kaiserslautern Military Community Center and Ramstein Air Base Commissary; and at Camp Humphreys, South Korea, April 13-14, with Kyle Hamilton from the Baltimore Ravens.

CHILD & YOUTH SERVICES Youth Sponsorship Program INFORMATION FOR PARENTS

Did you recently receive PCS orders and have a school-aged child or teen that's worried about moving? Maybe you've heard them wonder:

- Who will my new friends be?
- What will my new school look like? What activities/sports are available?
- What are the other kids wearing?

The Youth Sponsorship Program connects your child to another youth in the new community to answer these questions and so much more.

Why should my child request a sponsor? A sponsor:

- Allows your child to get to know their community before they arrive.
- Provides them with someone who can show them the ropes in their new community.
- Helps reduce social isolation, leading to a healthier transition with reduced stress and at-risk behaviors.
- Gives youth a youth perspective of their new community and school.

- Allows you to focus on other aspects of transition, knowing that your child's needs are being met.

What does the Youth Sponsorship Program provide for my child?

- Their Youth Sponsor will provide a welcome packet and information about their new community before arrival.

Defense Health Agency Team members at Munson Army Health Center were recently recognized by Lt. Gen. Milford H. Beagle Jr., commanding general of the Combined Arms Center and Fort Leavenworth, for their Force Health Protection efforts against seasonal influenza. The team spearheaded MAHC's 2023-24 seasonal influenza vaccine campaign, vaccinating more than 7,000 Military Health System beneficiaries on post and in the greater Kansas City metropolitan area. In 1918 a lethal influenza virus spread globally, infecting a third of the world's population and causing 50 million deaths worldwide, according to data from the National Institutes of Health. Unless contraindicated, getting a seasonal influenza vaccine each year is one of the best precautions individuals can take to prevent or reduce the severity of the virus. In the Northern hemisphere, flu season typically runs from October to May, usually peaking in February. MAHC will begin vaccinations for the upcoming flu season in the fall.
