Dubbed as “the best year” of a student’s life, the 2025 Command and General Staff Officer Course concluded with the graduation ceremony June 6 in Eisenhower Auditorium at the Lewis and Clark Center.

A total of 950 students graduated from the 10-month course, with every branch of service represented this year except Space Force. Within the CGSOC Class of 2025, 121 students were international military students who represented 92 countries. In addition, five graduating students were civilians from federal agencies.

The graduation ceremony also celebrated 16 distinguished students who won 19 different awards.

Maj. Spencer Bates, recipient of the Brigadier General Benjamin H. Grierson Award for Excellence in Strategic Studies, said receiving the award was an honor.

“I was humbled because the two other people that I was in competition with are exceptional,” Bates said. “When you talk about a high bar to clear, it’s a pretty high bar.”

Brig. Gen. Matthew Hardman, deputy commanding general – maneuver, 1st Infantry Division, delivered the commencement address.

Hardman’s remarks focused on how the graduating students are currently impacting the lives of others, and how they can continue to create an impact, both to the nation and to their own families.

“I went to my 25-year (college) reunion, and I realized that I was the richest person there,” Hardman

Understanding connection between sexual violence, PTSD is crucial by Lt. Col. Craig D. Arnold II/Interim Supervisory Sexual Assault Response Coordinator/SARC – Team 2

As we observe the National Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) Awareness Month this June, the Sexual Harassment/Assault Response and Prevention (SHARP) program stands committed to fostering a climate of understanding, support and healing. Recognizing the profound impact of trauma, especially from sexual violence, is essential to our mission of prevention and response.

Trauma's echo: Sexual violence and PTSD

Sexual violence is a devastating trauma that can leave deep and lasting scars. For many survivors, the impact extends beyond the immediate aftermath, often leading to Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder or Complex PTSD (C-PTSD).

It's crucial to understand this connection and why it's so common.

Profound violation

Sexual violence shatters a person's sense of safety, control and trust. The intense fear and helplessness experienced can fundamentally alter the brain's stress response, a key factor in PTSD development.

Betrayal and isolation

When the violence comes from someone known to the survivor, the betrayal of trust adds another layer of trauma, often leading to intense feelings of shame, guilt and isolation. These feelings can make it incredibly difficult to seek help, worsening PTSD symptoms.

Complex trauma

Repeated or prolonged sexual violence, especially in childhood, can result in Complex PTSD. This involves more pervasive challenges with emotional regulation, identity, relationships and a distorted self-perception, requiring specialized support.

Invisible wounds

PTSD symptoms can be diverse and aren't always visible. Survivors may experience flashbacks, nightmares, avoidance of reminders, hypervigilance, difficulty with trust, emotional numbness and more. These are not signs of weakness, but natural responses to an unnatural event.

Why does this matter?

Understanding this intersection helps us:

• Challenge blame and stigma

It's vital to reiterate that sexual violence is NEVER the survivor's fault. Understanding PTSD helps combat victim-blaming myths and encourages a compassionate response.

• Promote healing

When we recognize the link between sexual violence and PTSD, we can better support survivors in accessing trauma-informed care and specialized therapies that can truly help them heal.

• Build a supportive community

By raising awareness, we create a more empathetic environment where survivors feel believed, heard and empowered to seek the help they deserve.

If you or someone you know is struggling with the aftermath of sexual violence and potential PTSD symptoms, please remember:

You are not alone.

Your feelings are valid.

Healing is possible.

AAFES, AER roll out special donation option for Army’s 250th birthday

by Army and Air Force Exchange Service Public Affairs News Release

DALLAS – As the nation celebrates the Army’s 250th birthday, the Army community can make a big difference with a small symbolic gift while shopping at the Post Exchange in June.

In recognition of the oldest U.S. armed service branch’s 250th birthday on June 14, authorized shoppers can make a $2.50 donation to Army Emergency Relief at Army and Air Force Exchange Service in-store registers, including self-checkout, throughout the month of June.

Army Emergency Relief was founded in 1942 by then-Secretary of War Henry Stimson and Army Chief of Staff Gen. George Marshall and supports the well-being of soldiers, retired soldiers and Army families by helping alleviate financial stress and promoting economic stability.

“Through zero-interest loans, grants and educational scholarships, AER assists soldiers facing financial hardship,” said retired Sgt. Maj. of the Army Michael A. Grinston, AER CEO. “As the Army marks 250 years of bravery and service, AER is ‘Honoring the Past — Securing the Future’ and encouraging all soldiers and soldiers for life to make a special $2.50 donation on their next visit to the PX.”

In 2024, Exchange shoppers donated more than $2.7 million to AER, the Air Force Assistance Fund and Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society. Since 2017, donations to all three have totaled nearly $11.8 million.

Kansas City Chiefs Defensive End George Karlaftis will host a football training camp for Fort Leavenworth military youth July 14-15. During the camp Karlaftis will speak on the importance of active living and the celebration of military children's sacrifices.

CGSOC graduation

said. “I was the richest person because of the experiences that I’ve had, the places that I’ve been, and, most importantly, the people that I had gotten to know and serve with along the way — not just the service members, but I would argue more importantly, the families and the communities that I’ve been able to raise my kids in.”

Hardman’s remarks not only reminded the graduates of the richness their careers would provide, but also how they can find success outside of their careers.

“Rank and position are not ‘success.’ Don’t give your self-worth over to a bunch of strangers sitting on a board. Define it for yourself,” Hardman said.

Hardman concluded his speech by offering encouragement for the graduates’ futures.

“None of us know what missions or tasks are truly in front of us. There are high expectations, though, on all of you for your leadership and warfighting capabilities, but those expectations come from a place of profound respect,” Hardman said.

Master of military art and science or master of operational science degrees were conferred to 907 of the graduates, with 55 students crossing the stage to receive their MMAS, and 18 section leaders walking the stage to represent their peers.

Command and General Staff School Director Col. David Norris presents the Brigadier General Benjamin H. Grierson Award for Excellence in Strategic Studies to Maj. Spencer Bates during the graduation ceremony for the Command and General Staff Officer Course Class of 2025 June 6 in Eisenhower Auditorium at the Lewis and Clark Center. Finalists for the award included Maj. Callum Knight and Maj. Zakariae Tiddarine.

HEADS UP

We are all trying to get somewhere, so let's pay attention to each other and get places safely!

Here are few tips for pedestrians and drivers to be aware of when traveling on post.

HEADS UP PEDESTRIANS!

- Walk on sidewalks whenever they are available
- Look up from your phone and pay attention when approaching a crosswalk
- Watch for vehicles turning left or right before you cross
- Whenever possible, cross streets at crosswalks or intersections, where drivers expect pedestrians
- Wear bright or reflective clothing during reduced visibility so drivers can see you.

HEADS UP DRIVERS!

- Put away all distractions and pay attention to the road
- Always look out for pedestrians
- Obey the posted speed limit
- Yield to pedestrians in crosswalks
- When opening your vehicle door be alert for bicyclists
- When paralleling a sidewalk and making a right turn, be sure to check your right rear

ARMY CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION DIVISION

Cybercrime Prevention Flyer

Government Agency Text Scams

Due to convenience and immediacy in communication offered by text messaging, many people are more likely to readily check these messages and respond quickly as opposed to email or answering a phone call. As cybercriminals and scammers are well acquainted with the most effective means to communicate with unsuspecting victims, and due to the proliferation of cell phones (approximately 310 million in the U.S. as of 2024), sending a convincing scam via text can be an effective method for criminal elements to engage unsuspecting individuals. A single reply by one victim can net a cybercriminal hundreds or even thousands of dollars; the potential amounts are even higher with multiple replies.

To add authenticity, scammers often draft a convincing text message purported to come from an official local, state, or federal agency. Some common scam themes include:

- IRS Scam – Often seen during tax season, IRS themed messages request personal information to process a refund or recalculate tax amounts. Payment might be requested to allow the recipient of the text to avoid prosecution or having their social security number canceled.
- Social Security Scam – Frequently targeting older adults, Social Security scams often revolve around overpayment, suspension of benefits, or requests for additional information necessary for a payment increase.
- U.S. Postal Service – Using notification of an incoming package, scammers request recipients to click on a provided link which then leads to a website requesting personal or financial information.
- Speeding and Parking Ticket Scams – This scam involves a text indicating recipient's vehicle was exceeding the speed limit or parked illegally, and a citation was issued; it then requests payment to avoid a court appearance.
- Jury Duty Text Scam – Seemingly sent from a court with a claim the recipient missed jury duty and is required to pay a fine or provide personal information to avoid jail time or fines.
- Other Government Agency Scams – Within a month of the establishment of the Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE), scammers began targeting government personnel with DOGE themed scams.

Text Scam Protection Tips

- Bear in mind that the IRS does not text taxpayers; the IRS contacts taxpayers through the U.S. Postal Service unless in special circumstances wherein taxpayers would be contacted by phone.
- Do not click on links received in text messages, or reply to text messages, if the sender is unknown or the message looks questionable.

Safely dispose of old and expired medications before your move.

Munson Army Health Center's medication disposal receptacle is located in the pharmacy lobby near Window No. 1 for patients to discard the majority of their unused medications.

Several exclusions apply, including syringes, needles, and liquids greater than 4 ounces.

If a dangerous medication is on the FDA Flush List and a drug take-back program is not available, patients can dispose of the medication by flushing it down the toilet to avoid misuse and accidents.
